SYNOPSIS

An indispensable book for all those who live with a sick person, be it family or professional carers.

In nearly all families there are people who take up most of their day caring for a sick person. This book offers tips and practical tools for those that are taking care of a sick individual. Through witness accounts of those who have learned from their experience as carers, the author explains how to talk to the sick person, which kinds of social help are available, legal questions, the rights of the carer and specific answers to critical situations are some of the questions tackled by the author.
